Three-day Gender Equity Program

Organized by: Department of English, IAH

Date: 28.01.2017 to 30.01.2017

Session 2016-2017

Report on Gender Equity Program Date: 28/01/2017

Gender sensitization programs and activities should not be offered as an elective at the university level. It should be compulsory activities. People continue to believe that such courses may or may not be included in the program. They also believe that it will have little impact on a larger scale. However, this event will put to light the issues that both men and women confront at home and at work after growing up in a culture where women are mistreated and treated as second-class citizens. Women feel submissive to males because they are unaware of their own value. The sense of entitlement that the society has embedded in the minds of men, force them into believing in their superiority. These notions should be dealt with immediately for both men and women to balance their lives and gift a better quality of life for their children be it a boy or a girl.

Rather than just criticizing and forcing our females to remain at home, we should teach our men to be respectful and courteous of others. Gender equality does not ensure instantaneous outcomes. Although the procedure is lengthy, we have control over its consistency. We must guarantee that young students are exposed to the prospect of a society free of the epistemic disparities that result from gender inequality.

Considering all of these factors into account, the English department at the higher education level provides a regular course called "Introduction to Gender and Women Studies." The course's curriculum is enclosed herewith.

A Gender Equity Program for students of UG/PG was organized by the department of English from 28.01.2017 to 30.01.2017 at Block VI Ground floor IBM conference hall. Thirty three students participated in this program. Prof. Nitin Bhatnagar, Head of the Department welcomed chief guest, Prof. Anoop Kumar Gupta, Director, Dean of Academic affairs and other participants. After lighting of the lamp and Saraswati Vandana, Prof. Nitin Bhatnagar gave an inaugural speech and informed to the participants about the need of gender awareness initiatives in universities and colleges.

Chief Guest, Prof. Anoop Kumar Gupta, Director, Dean of Academic Affairs also appreciated this course and program and shared his knowledge about government's National Youth Policy 2014. This policy identifies five well-defined objectives and 11 priority areas, and suggests policy interventions in each. He said that this policy priorities certain areas as education, skill development and employment, entrepreneurship, health and healthy lifestyle, sports, promotion of social values, community engagement, participation in politics and governance, youth engagement, inclusion and social justice. As government has undertaken initiatives to enable youth to fully participate in the job market and gain access to employment services similarly we should also come forward and contribute to strengthen our youth. Following that, a group discussion on "Gender Studies as a Compulsory Course in Higher Education" also took place. Candidates also presented a 5-minute poster presentation on same topic.

Guest Lecture on Gender Equality in Education

Venue: GLA University Campus

Date: 08th February 2018

The Institute of Legal Studies and Research (ILSR), GLA University, conducted a guest lecture on "Gender Equality in Education" on 08th February 2018 within the premise of GLA University, Mathura. The keynote speaker was Ms. Shreya Debb, Advocate, High Court of Maharashtra. The programme was conducted with help of ILSR Faculty Members and active participation of ILSR's students. The aim of the programme was to raise the level of awareness about the importance of gender equality in education in order to alleviate the gender discrimination entrenched in the society. The following legal and social messages were conveyed to the students.

One of the grave concerns remains the continuing lesser enrollment of girl students at all levels of education. To inculcate awareness in the society to achieve gender balance in the realm of education remains a quintessential task that needs to be performed by every members of the society. Furthermore, it was discussed that how the dwindling number of girl students in the education sector decreases the productivity of the society. There were important conclusions, which were drawn, especially in the primary schools. That even the absence of basic amenities like washrooms discourage the girls from coming to the schools. Furthermore, the phenomenon of child labor, which remains rampant in the society, has also discouraged the parents from enrolling their wards in the schools. The Programme was ended with a vote of thanks extended by I K Singh, Assistant Professor, ILSR.

Three-day Gender Equity Program

Organized by: Department of English, IAH

Date: 01.01.2018 to 02.01.2018

Session 2017-2018

Report on Gender Equity Program Date: 01.01.2018

Gender equality is not just a basic human right, but also a prerequisite for a society that is peaceful, affluent, and sustainable. Over the last two decades, there have been numerous obvious changes: more girls are attending school, fewer girls are being pushed into early marriages, more women are sitting in parliament and positions of leadership, and laws are being modified to promote gender equality.

Despite these gains, many issues persist: discriminatory laws and social norms persist, women continue to be underrepresented at all levels of political leadership, and one in every five women and girls aged 15 to 49 report experiencing physical violence by an intimate partner.

A Gender Equity Program ‘Gender Equality and empower all women and girls’ for students of UG/PG was organized by the department of English from 01.01.2018 to 02.01.2018 at Block VI Ground floor IBM conference hall. Thirty five students participated in this program. Prof. Nitin Bhatnagar, Head of the Department welcomed chief guest, Prof. Anoop Kumar Gupta, Director, Dean of Academic affairs and other participants. After lighting of the lamp and Saraswati Vandana, Prof. Nitin Bhatnagar gave an inaugural speech and informed to the participants about the need of Gender Equality and empower all women and girls.

Chief Guest, Prof. Anoop Kumar Gupta, Director, Dean of Academic Affairs shared his knowledge said that today, more girls are able to access and continue their primary education, incidence of child marriage is declining, and concrete legal reforms and actions are making national systems such as health, education, water and sanitation more responsive to the needs and vulnerabilities of millions of underserved women and girls.

Gender Equity Program

Organized by: Department of English, IAH

Date: 23.02.2019

Session 2018-2019

Report on Gender Equity Program Date: 23.02.2019

Man is mortal. And so is woman. But still, we use the word “man” to represent the whole of the human race. The language that we use in our day to day lives has an everlasting imprint on our minds. It is best to make sure that the language we bequeath to our next generation should be free of such patriarchal constraints of the society. This calls for a review of the sentences that undermine women’s experiences of life. This awareness event seeks to stir the sediments that have settled in our minds.

Legal foundations and education system have been changing throughout the world to accommodate the thought that women matter equally. But as we look around ourselves, we find many people still believing that women’s education is a mistake or better-- women’s education has the sole purpose of making her get a job and pay for her own dowry. To rival such dehumanizing notions of about women’s existence a gender sensitization program is necessary. It would certainly broaden the minds of people and make it flexible. Awareness of such issues at an institution is better suited since there is a possibility of discussion without being judged by the society. Experiments are privileges that a university atmosphere ensures. And therefore, experimenting with and making people aware of the idea of gender equity will have a better chance.

Taking all such issues under consideration, the department of English organized a Gender Equity Program on “Why Is Gender Equality Important?” on 23.02.2019 at Block VI Ground floor IBM conference hall. Twenty two students participated in this program. Prof. Nitin Bhatnagar, Head of the Department welcomed chief guest and speaker and speaker, Prof. Anoop Kumar Gupta, Director, Dean of Academic Affairs and other participants. After lighting of the lamp and Saraswati Vandana, Head of the Organizing Committee Dr. Vivek Mehrotra gave an inaugural speech and discussed the importance of Gender Equality and said, “It is very important, women deserve equality. They deserve receiving good education. Education is our needs. No matter you're a boy or a girl but still, your rights are the same. Education doesn't see both genders. In addition, women also have a power to change the world, have a power to give opinions, and to share what they feel about something”.

Professor Anoop Kumar Gupta, Director IAH, from Department of English addressed the participants and asked them to re-think the model of education in terms of gender equity. This program was followed by the presentation of students who were willing to speak on importance of Gender Equity. Also there was a group discussion on “Gender Equity and Why It is Important”.

Gender Discrimination-A Universal Challenge

Venue: GLA University Campus

Date: 10th December 2019

The Institute of Legal Studies and Research (ILSR), GLA University, conducted a guest lecture on “Gender Discrimination: A Universal Challenge” on 10th December 2019 within the premise of GLA University, Mathura. The keynote speaker of the programme was Abhijit Adhikari, Advocate, Supreme Court of India. This special lecture was convened to decipher the prevalence of discrimination in every society of the world. It has been witnessed that in all the nation states women are struggling for their just place in the society as well as the economy.

The issues of equal work and equal pay has plagued all the societies. This observation was made that until the economic discrimination ends, women will not be able to realize their true place in the society. Further, the discrimination that women face in not limited to only one country rather even in the developed west it has been witnessed that the discrimination remains rampant. Furthermore, it was discussed that social and cultural barriers remain present in every society and women have been confronting these for long now.

Students were informed that how the astute applicability of laws can help in reducing the barriers faced by women in the society, and they can realize the true emancipation from the shackles of social, cultural, political and economic obstacles.

The lecture was concluded with the vote of thanks extended by Arunanshu Dubey, Assistant Professor, ILSR.

Gender Equality in Politics- A Far-fetched Milestone?

Venue: GLA University Campus

Date: 1st April, 2020

The Institute of Legal Studies and Research (ILSR), GLA University, conducted a symposium on "Gender Equality in Politics: A Far-Fetched Milestone?" on 01st April, 2020. within the premise of GLA University, Mathura. The one day symposium was convened and Neetu Aggarwal, Associate Vice-President, Religare was the keynote speaker. She dwelled on the nuances of gender equality in politics. She extrapolated that despite the fact that Indian Constitution does not set any bar on women in politics and they are politically equal, their presence in the politics remains abysmally low.

Ms. Neetu Agarwal further added that even the reservation for women in politics has not made much headway in bringing the gender equality in politics. The example was given that even in local politics, women remain just for the namesakes. These loopholes in the system need to be addressed by rigorous implementation of laws.

The symposium was concluded with remarks of Prof. Avinash Dadhich, Dean, ILSR.

Gender Equity Program

Organized by: Department of English, IAH

Date: 15.02.2020

Session 2019-2020

Report on Gender Equity Program Date: 15.02.2020

Generally speaking, now we have made substantive progress on gender parity in educational statistics, both in terms of access and school performance. However, serious obstacles to the full realization of the human right to the education of girls and women go far beyond school access or the treatment they receive in schools.

Among the main barriers are child labor (especially domestic work), early marriage and armed conflicts – which affect girls and women in particular – poverty, the influence of religions on educational policy decisions, violent and dangerous school environments and, especially, discriminatory practices that are repeated in schools, reflecting ideological and cultural constructions in our societies, which violate a set of human rights, especially the right to a dignified life, free from violence and discrimination.

Beyond the educational field, there are other strong injustices against women: their reduced political representation and unequal salaries they receive, their almost exclusive responsibility for domestic work and the care of family.

All these elements reveal that gender equality is still far from being fully accomplished, and the change in this scenario depends on a cultural transformation and the change of ingrained thoughts, what we understand will only become possible from reflection and a critical look on reality, elements that can and should be promoted in education and through it.

Considering all these subjects, the department of English organized a Gender Equity Program on “The Right to Education with Gender Equality” on 15.02.2020 at Block VI Ground floor IBM conference hall. Twenty seven students participated in this program. Prof. Panchanan Mohanty, Head of the Department welcomed the chief guest Prof. Anoop Kumar Gupta, Director, Dean of Academic Affairs and other participants. After lighting of the lamp and Saraswati Vandana, Head of the Organizing Committee Prof. Nitin Bhatnagar gave an inaugural speech and discussed about ‘The Right to Education with Gender Equality’ and said, “Women are entitled to equal treatment. They are entitled to an excellent education. Everyone requires same education. Regardless of whether you are a girl or a boy, rights remain the same. Women also have the ability to influence the world, express their thoughts, and share their feelings about many issues”.

Professor Anoop Kumar Gupta, Director IAH, from Department of English addressed the participants and mentioned “Our government has recognized the equal right to quality education of everyone and committed to achieving gender equality in all fields, including education, through their acceptance of human rights law. This means that states have legal obligations to remove all discriminatory barriers, whether they exist in law or in everyday life, and to undertake positive measures to bring about equality, including in access of, within, and through education. Boys and girls both must get equal right to education.”

Gender Discrimination Laws in India

Venue: GLA University Campus

Date: 11th December, 2020

The Institute of Legal Studies and Research (ILSR), GLA University, conducted a guest lecture on “Gender Discrimination Laws in India” on 11th December 2020 within the premise of GLA University, Mathura. The keynote speaker was Dr. Abhinandan Bassi, Assistant Professor, RGNUL.

Dr. Bassi emphasized on the availability of legal framework that is available in India that addresses the menace of gender discrimination laws in India. She mainly outlined that how Constitution of India remains the most astute framework in addressing and dealing with the challenge of gender discrimination. The right to equality ensures the just treatment of all the genders and therefore underpins the notion of gender equality.

There was an active student participation by the students and ILSR teachers and Q&A session followed after the speech of Dr. Bassi.

The programme was concluded with the vote of thanks extended by Arunanshu Dubey, Assistant Professor, ILSR.

Gender Sensitization through Changing the Narratives

Venue: GLA University Campus

The Institute of Legal Studies and Research (ILSR), GLA University, conducted a guest lecture on “Gender Sensitization through Changing the Narratives” on 02nd May, 2021 within the premise of GLA University, Mathura. The keynote speaker was Pratishta Singh, Legal Counsel, AZB & CO. The narratives that prevail in a given society about women largely determine sensitivity towards them. A gender narrative specifically examines how the intersectionality of one's identities influences one's perception and performance of gender within society. Gender narratives are fluid as we continue to have new experiences, interact with new people, and identify ourselves differently.

The narratives largely prevail through media, films, popular culture and mythology. The discussion revolved around the portrayal of women as a sexual object in the films must be changed. Further, the social taboos around women that if women are starting working in every industry, no longer they remain chaste. In addition, the important position that has been attached to women and there are deities, the use of mythology about the exalted position of women in the ancient India must be invoked.

The lecture was concluded with the closing remarks by Prof. Avinash Dadhich, Dean, ILSR.

Venue: GLA University Campus

Date: 21st August, 2020

The Institute of Legal Studies and Research (ILSR), GLA University, conducted a guest lecture on "Role of Education to Attain the Gender Equity" on 21st February 2020 within the premise of GLA University, Mathura. The Keynote speaker for the programme was Ritesh Agarwal, Senior Associate, Sarin & Co.

The role of education was emphasized that it is the education, which can bring out an overhauling in the conditions of women. It was thoroughly debated that it is the education which raises the consciousness in the society. Furthermore, in the absence of the education, women do not know what are the resources that remain available at their disposal. Therefore, through education not only the mentality of the society change rather the plight of women start improving.

The motive of the programme was to stimulate a discussion amongst the students to understand that how and where the education becomes inaccessible. And, what are the ways through which the education could be used to spread awareness about the gender equity. The programme was ended with the vote of thanks extended by I K Singh, Assistant Professor, ILSR.

Gender Equity Program (ONLINE)

Organized by: Poetry Club GLAU

Department of English, IAH

Date: 26.06.2021

Session 2020-2021

Report on ‘Current trends of Gender Equity’ Date: 26.06.2021

The word “equity” means “justice according to natural law or right” or “freedom from bias and favoritism.” Unfortunately, India and the majority population on earth is still practicing inequality in various spheres of our existence. Indian LGBTQAI+ communities are still facing hate and non-cooperation from various government and private sectors. Although Indian court has read down Section 377, it still does not guarantee any legal support to homosexual marriages and the property rights for the concerned couple. Private Banks are mistreating the banner of “women empowerment” to create microeconomics’ disrupting the macroeconomic state-policies with higher returns on investments. Conservative families are still forcing unemployed women to commit to their “labor of love”—care for the sick, old and young—with no wages or economical gains. And they are still toiling under the laborious burden of household chores, raising children, complementing their partners and looking after their aging parents, knowing no dreams, hopes, and ambitions for their own lives. Lack of education in under-privileged sections of the society and the oppression of the age-old patriarchal domination in the upper ones, have branded the identity of “mother”, “daughter”, “wife”, “sister” on the souls of women. A woman is a woman. Her claim to her own identity, dreams and ambitions, is still far from where we stand. UNESCO has drafted the 17 goals for countries to enter the sustainable development. “Gender equality” is also among the top five. Let’s make it a reality by spreading awareness and creating a new and more inclusive India.

Poetry Club, Department of English, IHA, GLAU organized Gender Equity Program on ‘Current trends of Gender Equity’ to raise awareness among students and prepare them for practicing gender equality in their professional and personal experiences. The event was live-casted on the official YouTube channel of Poetry Club GLAU.

Dr. Arun Pratap Sikarwar, faculty at Department of Zoology, Dalyalbagh Educational Institute, Agra and a scientific expert panelist delivered a talk on the “Current trends of Gender Equity” and the status of LGBTQAI+ communities in India. Participants also presented their views on the Gender Equity issues and their personal life experiences. Thereafter, Dr Kasturi Sinha Ray delivered a talk on Language and Gender Inequality.

Various presentations were also organized as —story narration, poem recitation and sharing of real-life experiences. Students participated in this program, narrated stories, shared their experiences, recited poems and with fullest energy.
